About Manhattan
Manhattan is the smallest but most densely populated of the five boroughs. While home to globally important financial, corporate, and entertainment sectors, the majority of its businesses are small businesses and it is the US county with the 3rd largest number of Asian-owned businesses.
Echelon Cycles has been serving the needs of cycling enthusiasts and professionals since 2010. In spite of having opened their original Greenwich Village shop during the challenging post-2008 market, it was an immediate success and business grew steadily as Echelon developed an excellent reputation and loyal customers.

The pandemic turned out to be a busy time for the biking industry and Daniel and Curtis quickly realized they needed a larger space and additional staff to meet growing demand.

They found a promising 3,500-square foot space in Chelsea, just a few blocks from their original location, but it needed extensive renovation.

They turned to Accompany Capital and, with a $150,000 SBA Community Advantage Loan and technical assistance from Accompany Capital, were able to do a full gut rehab, creating a sleek, professional showcase for their top-quality inventory. They were also able to add 5 new team members, bringing the total to eight, making them the premier – and largest - bike shop in Manhattan.
Bedana Bastola came to the US from Nepal in 2016. While studying for her certification as a trained lash technician she gained experience by working in a high-end lash salon.

In 2022 she opened her own salon, Empire Lash Studio, an oasis of calm in a highly trafficked area 5th Avenue location near the Empire State Building. She soon realized, however, that her lack of credit history would limit her access to small business loans from banks to grow her business. Fortunately, her husband - and co-owner - had been an Accompany Capital client previously and urged her to meet with us.

With the help of financing from Accompany Capital, she has been able to purchase stylish new furnishings for her relaxing space and upgraded equipment to enhance her business and continued growth.

She now plans to purchase a Laser Hair Removal Machine that will allow her to expand their services further and add new staff, as well as adding to her loyal and growing clientele.
